Visit of Budding Future Doctors on 08/10/2025 (Wednesday)

Dear Sir / Madam,

We thank you for sending 47 BHMS and 3 Staff for acquiring practical knowledge on October 08, 2025, at our factory.

We confirm that they were conducted by our experienced staff around all aspects of our factory and were explained in detail various aspects of manufacturing of Homoeopathic medicines by following GMP compliances.

We also confirm that our experienced botanist guided them through our Botanical Garden, showcasing the seasonal medicinal plants we have cultivated and addressing their plant-related inquiries.

A detailed question/answer session with slide show was also conducted by our scientific experts on various aspects of Homoeopathy.

Thanking you once again and we will be looking forward for similar visit next year also.

REPORT OF DISTRICT COURT VISIT

Date: 07/07/2025

Venue: District Court, Nashik

Class: 2nd BHMS (CBDC)

Accompanying Faculty: Dr. Sanhita Sharma and Dr. Yogini Mahajan

Total Students: 48 Total Present: 47 Total Absent: 1

Objective of the Court Visit

The primary objective of the District Court visit was to provide 2nd BHMS students with practical exposure to the judicial system and to:

- Understand the functioning and structure of civil & criminal courts.
- Observe real-time courtroom proceedings, including the roles of judges, advocates, and witnesses.
- Recognize the medico-legal responsibilities of doctors within the legal system.
- Gain awareness of courtroom decorum, legal terminologies, and trial procedures.
- Bridge the gap between theoretical learning in Forensic Medicine and its real-life applications.

Purpose of Visit:

The educational visit to the District Court, Nashik was organized as part of the academic curriculum of the Forensic Medicine and Toxicology (FMT) Department to provide students with firsthand exposure to judicial processes and courtroom proceedings.

Details of Visit:

A total of 47 students were divided into five groups, each group assigned to observe proceedings in different criminal courts. Students observed various stages of criminal trials including examination of witnesses, cross-examination, framing of charges, arguments, and delivery of court orders. This arrangement ensured wide coverage of courtroom procedures and allowed each group to gain varied experiences.

Learning Outcomes:

- Understanding of the structure and functioning of criminal courts.
- Familiarity with court decorum and procedural aspects.

- Insight into the medico-legal role of doctors, particularly as expert witnesses.
- Appreciation of how medical records and documentation are used as legal evidence.

Feedback:

Students responded positively, finding the visit highly educational. It provided clarity on the practical implications of forensic medicine and strengthened their readiness for medico-legal responsibilities in future practice.

FORENSIC SCIENCE LABORATORY (FSL) VISIT REPORT

Date: 06/08/2025

Date: 6th August 2025

Batch: 2nd BHMS (A.Y. 2025- 2026) Total Students: 48 Present: 46 Absent: 2

Department: Forensic Medicine & Toxicology

Faculty Coordinators:

- Dr. Sanhita Sharma
- Dr. Yogini Mahajan

Objective of the Visit:

To enhance students' practical understanding of forensic science and its medico-legal importance, as per the curriculum guidelines of the National Commission for Homoeopathy, New Delhi.

Venue:

Regional Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL), MERI, Nashik

Participants:

Students were divided into two groups for effective interaction:

Group A – Accompanied by Dr. Yogini Mahajan

Group B – Accompanied by Dr. Sanhita Sharma

Visit Schedule:

- Entry Formalities Completed: 11:00 AM
- Visit Commenced: 11:20 AM
- Visit Concluded: 1:15 PM

Departments Visited:

Each group visited the following departments in a structured rotation:

1. Alcohol and Excise Department – Demonstration of alcohol content analysis and liquor sampling techniques.

2. DNA Analysis Department – Overview of DNA extraction, amplification, and matching processes.
3. Body Fluid Detection Department – Techniques used for detecting and analyzing blood, semen, and other biological fluids.
4. Toxicology Department – Procedures of toxic substance identification in biological samples.
5. Cyber Crime Department – Demonstration of digital evidence recovery and cyber forensic tools.
6. General Analysis Department – Insight into examination of miscellaneous materials like drugs, chemicals, and trace evidence.

Student Interaction:

- Students actively interacted with experts from all departments.
- Several questions related to real-life forensic applications, medico-legal documentation, and evidence analysis were answered in detail.
- A geotagged group photograph was taken for academic documentation.
- Students were instructed to:
 - Write an individual report of the visit
 - Paste the group photograph in their FMT journal
 - Submit the same for academic assessment

Learning Outcomes:

- Understood the practical role of forensic science in criminal investigations.
- Observed various departmental procedures such as DNA testing, cyber forensics, toxicological analysis, and more.
- Developed an appreciation for how scientific methods contribute to medico-legal decision-making.

Remarks:

The educational visit to Regional FSL, MERI Nashik was well-organized and highly informative. It helped reinforce theoretical knowledge through real-time exposure. The Department of Forensic Medicine & Toxicology extends sincere thanks to the FSL staff for their cooperation and support.

Subject: Appreciation for Academic visit Permission on 06/08/25

Respected Sir/Madam,

On behalf of Dhanvantari Homoeopathic Medical College, Hospital & Research Centre, Nashik, I extend my sincere appreciation and gratitude to your esteemed institution for permitting our 2nd BHMS students and faculty members to conduct an academic visit to your Forensic Science Laboratory at MERI, Nashik on 6th August 2025.

This visit was conducted under the academic guidelines of the National Commission for Homoeopathy, New Delhi, and proved to be highly educational for our students. It provided valuable exposure to practical forensic science and medico-legal procedures, which are essential components of their academic development.

We especially thank your team for the guidance and informative sessions provided during the visit. The students were accompanied by faculty members Dr. Sanhita Sharma and Dr. Yogini Mahajan, who also found the visit extremely beneficial for academic enrichment.

We are grateful for your hospitality and support and look forward to future collaborative academic initiatives.

Warm regards,

Dr. Umesh B. Nagarkar

SUBJECT:- Regarding getting permission for visit of 2nd BHMS student to pathological laboratory of Ashoka Medicover Hospital.

Respected Sir/Madam,

Myself Dr. Umesh Nagarkar (Principal of Dhanvantari Homoeopathic Medical college and hospital Nashik) I am writing to formally request permission for the visit of our 2nd BHMS (Bachelor of Homeopathic Medicine and Surgery) students to the Pathological Laboratory of Ashoka Medicover Hospital for educational purposes. This visit will allow the students to observe and understand the various pathological processes, laboratory techniques, and clinical practices that are essential in the medical field.

The students are scheduled to visit on 17th march 2025, and we kindly request your permission to facilitate this visit. We assure you that the students will follow all necessary protocols and guidelines during their visit to ensure a smooth and safe experience.

We would be grateful for your co-operation in providing this valuable opportunity for our students to gain practical exposure in the field of pathology.

We look forward to your positive response. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Yours Sincerely,

(Dr. Umesh B. Nagarkar)

राष्ट्रीय अंगदान दिवस

3 August 2025

"एक जीवन जाए कई जीवन बचाए "

अंगदान का मतलब है

किसी व्यक्ति के मरने के बाद उसके स्वस्थ अंग (जैसे: हृदय, किडनी, लिवर आदि) किसी जरूरतमंद को देना।

। यह जीवन बचाने का एक महान कार्य है।
॥ अंगदान करने वाला व्यक्ति 'अंगदाता (Donor)' कहलाता है।

अंगदान क्यों जरूरी है

- ✓ हर साल लाखों लोग अंग प्रत्यारोपण का इंतजार करते हैं।
- ✓ एक व्यक्ति के अंग 8 लोगों की जान बचा सकते हैं।
- ✓ भारत में अंगदान दर बहुत कम है - 1 प्रति 10 लाख लोग।

Objectives (Primary Objective) - To Assess The Role Of Homoeopathic Medicine In Management Of Migraine In Patient Aged 18-40 Years.

Method: Study Design: A Randomized Controlled Trialstudy Setting: Dhmc College Opd Nashik, Peripheral Opd. Sample Size: 30 Cases Sampling Technique:Total 16 Samples With Complaints Of Migraine Selected By Simple Random Sampling Technique.

Result: : In The Homoeopathic Group, 14 Out Of 15 Patients (93.3%) Showed Significant Improvement, While 1 Patient Did Not Respond. In The Allopathic Group, 12 Out Of 15 Patients (80%) Improved, And 3 Patients Showed No Response. The Results Indicate A Slightly Higher Response Rate With Individualized Homoeopathic Treatment Compared To Allopathic Treatment.

Must Meet The Criteria Of Migraine Without Aura For A Minimum Of Three Months. In Addition They Must Not Be Due To Medication Abuse Or Attributable To Any Other Cause.¹

The Term Migraine Is Originated From The Greek Word Hemicrania Meaning The One Side Of The Head .Migraine Headache Is An Episodic Neurovascular Phenomenon Is Characterized By Recurrent Attacks Of Unilateral Headache.¹³

Prevalence Of Migraine-

The Prevalence Of Migraine In The General Population Has Been Calculated Using A Standard Mailed Questionnaire, Which Inquired About Headache And The Individual Features Of Migraine, And Which Previously Had Been Compared With A Clinical Diagnosis. In Three Separate Epidemiological Surveys The Prevalence In The Preceding Year Was Found To Be Between 23 And 29% In Women And Between 15 And 20% In Men. The Prevalence Declined With Age In Both Men And Women. These Surveys Show That Migraine Is Much More Prevalent Than The Frequently Quoted Figure Of About 10% Of The Population Which Does Not Seem To Be Based On Any Particular Survey.²

ABSTRACT: Urticaria, commonly known as hives, is a skin condition characterized by the appearance of itchy, raised welts which can vary in size and location on the body. It is a widespread condition, occurring globally without specific regional limitations. Urticaria can affect individuals of any age. The condition often results from allergic reactions to substances like food, drugs, latex, and pollen, triggered by infections (viral or bacterial), autoimmune responses, or physical stimuli such as pressure or temperature changes.

Homoeopathy treats each case of urticaria based on the individual's specific symptoms and triggers. By understanding urticaria disease with susceptibility, this will help in developing different types of strategies by homoeopathic management while treating urticaria.

In this individualized study we had done on 30 patients with the aim of understanding the role of homoeopathy in individualized cases of urticaria. 30 patients were taken from the outpatient department of the college hospital. All patients were orientated to avoid the causative factors or the triggering factors. 90% of patients were treated with homoeopathic intervention. Each case was studied to understand how every individual differs in the presentation of urticaria. Each follow-up was studied in detail to study the role of homoeopathy in the management of urticaria.

From this study, it is evident that homoeopathic management has good scope in treating individualized cases of urticaria. On applying Wilcoxon signed rank test we got the result as p value <0.05 , we reject null hypothesis; we can conclude that there is statistically significant difference in pre and post grades for urticaria. Urticaria case management strategy should be based on individual case presentations, susceptibility of the individual, dominant miasm and posology.

KEYWORDS: Urticaria, homocopathy, individualization, susceptibility, miasm, posology.

I.INTRODUCTION

Urticaria is an inflammatory skin disorder that affects up to 20% of the world population at some point during their lives. It presents with wheals, angioedema or both due to activation and degranulation of skin mast cells and the release of histamine and other mediators¹.

A systematic review with meta-analysis showed that urticaria affects a considerable part of the population around the globe, with overall lifetime and point prevalence rates of 1.4% and 0.7%, respectively. Urticaria seems to be more prevalent in Asia than in Europe and Northern America. Regarding sex-specific analyses, women seemed to be more affected than men, possibly due to the influence of sex hormones, particularly estrogens, which can stimulate humoral immunity and antibody synthesis, potentially impacting mast cell degranulation, a key factor in urticaria. In children < 15 years, we did not find a sex-specific difference².

The prevalence of urticaria and angioedema varies according to the population under

Abstract:

Hypothyroidism is a common disorder of the endocrine system in which the Thyroid gland does not produce enough Thyroid Hormone to meet the body's needs. Homeopathy is the best for Hypothyroidism. Homeopathy based on the principle of individualization, offers a unique therapeutic approach to managing this condition.

Objectives: This study aims to evaluate the effect of homeopathic medicines in the management of hypothyroidism.

Methods: This study was conducted with 30 cases of Hypothyroidism, selected through random sampling from the OPD/IPD of a Dhanvantari Homoeopathic Medical College and Hospital & Research Centre, peripheral OPDs. 15 cases were treated with individualized homeopathic medicines based on their presenting symptoms, mental general, and physical general symptoms. The medicines were given based on case-taking, repertorization, and systemic examination. The outcome was assessed based on symptomatic relief, TSH level and overall improvement in well-being and 15 cases were treated with individualized homeopathic medicines along with standardized treatment The outcome was assessed based on symptomatic relief and overall improvement in well-being. RESULT: Out of 30 cases, in 15 cases we prescribed individualized homeopathic medicines along with standardized medicines, out of which 13 cases were improved and 2 cases were not improved. We prescribed individualized homeopathic medicines based on patients' general symptoms, physical symptoms, constitution, temperaments, habits etc. Proper history was taken. In 15 cases, we prescribed standardized medicines, out of which 8 cases were improved & 7 cases were not improved.

In standardized treatment, patients are treated randomly depending upon the current symptoms of the patient. Symptoms such as weight gain, palpitations, swelling over body cure and recurrently appear. Their thyroid reports also fluctuate, there is a difference between TSH levels, before treatment and afterward.

The positive response in the majority of cases highlights the potential effectiveness of individualized homeopathic treatment in Hypothyroidism management. CONCLUSION: This study suggests that

ABSTRACT

Introduction: The aim of this study was to evaluate the role of individualized homoeopathic medicines in the treatment of panic attacks, specifically focusing on their effectiveness in managing symptoms and improving patient outcomes. A total of 30 patients with a history of panic attacks were included in this case series, with 29 patients showing significant improvement, while 1 patient did not experience any improvement. The study employed individualized homoeopathic treatment, with remedies selected based on the patient's unique symptoms, constitution, and mental-emotional state. Assessment was conducted through regular follow-ups, symptom analysis, and clinical evaluation. Method: Study Design: A case series study. Study Setting: The cases for the study were selected from OPD/ IPD of college & hospital. Cases from peripheral OPD & from health camps. Sample size: 30 cases. Sampling Technique: Total 30 samples with complaints of panic attacks selected by Simple Random Sampling Technique. Result: The Common symptoms in cases were palpitations, trembling, shivering, flushes of heat, etc. Maximum patients that is 10 belonged to age group "40-50 years of age, 6 patients belonged to 31-40 years of age, 6 patients belonged to 21-30 years of age and 5 belonged to 11-20 years of age and 3 patients belonged to age group 51-60 years age. Around 89 percent of patients were male and 11 percent were female. The stress factor that contributed the most was health issues of patient (9 cases) and others are money related, family related, studies related, job related, relationship related. Around 29 patients improved and 1 were still under the individualized case study. The most indicated medicine was aconite, arsenic, argentum nitricum, and other remedies were nitric acid, phosphorous, sulphur, calcarea carb, agaricus, cannabis indica, pulsatilla, psorinum, kali carbonicum, lycopodium, bryonia, Aurum Mur, aurum met, coccus, Asarum, calcarean Fluoricum, ignatia, sepia, natrum Mur, Gelsemium, nux vomica, Staphysagria, Capsium, silicea. ABSTRACT:

Introduction: Premenstrual Syndrome (PMS) is a cyclic disorder characterized by a range of emotional, behavioral, and physical symptoms that occur during the luteal phase of the menstrual cycle. It significantly affects the daily functioning and quality of life of many women. While conventional treatments focus primarily on symptom suppression through hormonal therapy, analgesics, or antidepressants, these methods may come with side effects and do not always offer long-term relief. This study aimed to evaluate the effectiveness of individualized homeopathic treatment in managing PMS.

Objective: This study aims to evaluate the efficacy of individualized homeopathic treatment in managing PMS.

Method: 30 cases diagnosed with PMS were selected based on specific inclusion criteria. All participants were treated exclusively with individualized homeopathic remedies tailored to their unique symptom profiles and overall constitution. The study was conducted over a defined treatment period, with regular follow-ups to assess changes in the intensity and frequency of PMS symptoms.

Result: Out of the 30 cases, 27 showed marked improvement in emotional and physical symptoms, while 3 cases remained unimproved. The results demonstrated a high success rate, indicating that homeopathy may offer a safe, effective, and holistic approach to managing PMS. The individualized nature of the treatment appeared to play a key role in addressing the root causes of the condition rather than merely suppressing symptoms. These findings support the potential of homeopathy as a reliable alternative in the treatment of PMS.

Conclusion: Further research with larger sample sizes and more extended follow-up periods is recommended to validate these results and explore the scope of homeopathy in women's health care.

Abstract

Background: Chronic migraine is a disabling neurovascular disorder characterized by recurrent headaches and associated systemic symptoms. The individualized homeopathic approach offers significant promise for long-term management, particularly when prescriptions are guided by systematic repertorization. This study compares the clinical outcomes obtained using Boenninghausen's Therapeutic Pocket Book (T.P.B.) and Kent's Repertory in patients with chronic migraine.

Objective: To evaluate and compare the therapeutic outcomes of Boenninghausen's and Kent's Repertory-based prescriptions in chronic migraine through a multi-centric clinical trial.

Methods: A prospective comparative clinical study was conducted at two centers in Maharashtra—Nashik and Aurangabad—from January to June 2025. A total of 60 patients (30 per group) were enrolled based on ICHD-3 criteria for migraine.

Group A: Boenninghausen's repertory used for case analysis and prescription.

Group B: Kent's repertory used for case analysis. Selection of remedies was confirmed through Materia Medica correlation. The primary outcomes included frequency of attacks, intensity (VAS), and Migraine Disability Assessment (MIDAS) score. Data were analyzed using paired t-tests, with $p < 0.05$ considered statistically significant.

Results: Both groups showed a significant reduction in migraine frequency and intensity after 12 weeks. Mean attack frequency reduced from 6.3 ± 1.2 to 2.8 ± 0.9 in Group A and from 6.1 ± 1.0 to 3.6 ± 1.1 in Group B. MIDAS scores improved by 65% in Group A and 48% in Group B. Remedies frequently indicated were Belladonna, Gelsemium, Natrum muriaticum, and Sanguinaria canadensis.

Conclusion: Boenninghausen's Repertory proved more effective due to its emphasis on modalities and concomitant symptoms, yielding better individualized prescriptions for chronic migraine management.

Abstract:

Background: Allergic Rhinitis is a prevalent condition affecting individuals of Pediatric age group, significantly impacting quality of life. Homoeopathy based on the principle of individualization, offers a unique therapeutic approach to managing this condition.

Objectives: This study aims to evaluate the role of individualized homeopathic medicines in the treatment of Allergic Rhinitis through a case series analysis.

Methods: A total 30 patients diagnosed with Allergic Rhinitis were treated with individualized homoeopathic remedies based on their presenting symptoms, mental general, and physical generals. The selection of remedies given according to detailed case - taking, repertorisation, and systemic examination. The outcome was assessed based on symptomatic relief and overall improvement in well- being.

Result: In this individualized study we had done on 30 patients with aim of understanding role of Homoeopathy in individualized cases of Allergic Rhinitis. 30 patients were taken from outpatient department of the college hospital. All patients were orientated to avoid the causative factors or the triggering factors. 90% patients were treated with homoeopathic intervention. Each case studied to understand how every individual differs in presentation of Allergic Rhinitis. Each follow up were studied in detail to study role homoeopathy in management of Allergic Rhinitis.

Conclusion: From this study, it is evident that homoeopathic management has good scope in treating individualized cases of Allergic Rhinitis. Allergic Rhinitis cases management strategy should be based on individual cases presentation, susceptibility of individual, dominant miasm and posology.

I. INTRODUCTION

Definition: Allergic rhinitis (AR) is a heterogeneous disorder that despite its high prevalence is often undiagnosed. It is characterized by one or more symptoms including sneezing, itching, nasal congestion, and rhinorrhea.¹

Etiology: The cause of this increase is unknown; however, contributing factors may include higher concentrations of airborne pollution, rising dust mite populations, less ventilation in homes and offices, dietary factors, and the trend toward more sedentary lifestyles.²

Epidemiology:

1. It is one of the most common chronic diseases worldwide, affecting patients of all ethnic groups and all ages.^{2, 3, 4} As a long-term pathology, AR entails recurring and disturbing symptoms, medications, periodic medical evaluations, and associated comorbidities.

2. Described concomitant pathologies are sinusitis, otitis media, nasal polyposis, conjunctivitis, and asthma.^{1,2,5} The Allergic Rhinitis and Its Impact on Asthma (ARIA) group³ reported in 2008 a high prevalence of asthma in patients affected by AR, around 10% to 40%. Similar predisposition factors, inflammation patterns, and triggers suggest the concept of one airway, one disease.

3. Therefore, AR has been identified as a comorbidity of asthma and a risk factor for asthma occurrence and exacerbation.

4. Identifying AR at a young age is fundamental to investigating potentially associated pathologies and starting early treatment.^{1,2,6} Second, in addition to the clinical and sanitary burden, it has been described how AR affects different areas of patients' life, involving quality of life and social and economic aspects.

Abstract: Background and Aim: Gastroesophageal Reflux Disease (GERD) is a chronic condition marked by the backward flow of stomach acid into the esophagus, causing symptoms like heartburn and regurgitation. It is increasingly prevalent, particularly in India, and influenced by factors such as diet, stress, lifestyle, and obesity. While conventional treatments like antacids and proton pump inhibitors offer temporary relief, they may not be ideal for long-term use due to potential side effects. Homeopathy, focusing on treating the root cause and restoring balance, offers an alternative approach. This study aimed to evaluate the effectiveness of the homeopathic remedy Nux vomica in managing GERD. Method: A clinical study was conducted on 30 GERD patients selected through simple random sampling from OPD/IPD, peripheral OPDs, and health camps. Diagnosis was confirmed using a standardized GERD questionnaire. Detailed case histories were recorded, and Nux vomica was prescribed based on symptom similarity. Symptom scores were noted before and after treatment using the same questionnaire to assess changes. Results: Out of 30 patients, 23 showed significant improvement in symptoms, including reduced heartburn, regurgitation, and decreased dependence on antacids. Seven patients did not show notable changes. The findings suggest a promising role of Nux vomica in alleviating GERD symptoms. Conclusion: The study indicates that Nux vomica may be effective in managing GERD, offering a natural alternative with fewer side effects. Larger, controlled studies are recommended to validate these findings and explore its broader therapeutic potential

ABSTRACT:

Acne vulgaris is a common dermatological disorder affecting individuals across different age groups, often causing both physical and emotional distress. Homoeopathy, being a holistic system of medicine, emphasizes individualized treatment based on a patient's unique symptomatology and constitutional makeup. Objective: The primary objective of this study was to evaluate the role of individualized homoeopathic medicine in the treatment of acne vulgaris. The secondary objective was to identify the most commonly indicated homoeopathic medicines in such cases. Methods: This case series study was conducted with 30 cases of acne vulgaris, selected through stratified random sampling from the OPD/IPD of a Dhanvantari Homoeopathic Medical College and Hospital & Research Centre, peripheral OPDs, schools, and health camps. Each case was assessed and treated with individualized homoeopathic medicines. The severity of acne was evaluated using Cook's scale before and after treatment. Results: Out of the 30 patients, 25 (83.33%) showed significant improvement in terms of reduction in the number of eruptions, severity of lesions, pain, itching, and inflammation. However, 5 (16.67%) did not show marked improvement. The most frequently indicated remedy was Natrum muriaticum (in 8 cases), followed by Sulphur, Pulsatilla, Sepia, Medorrhinum, Calcarea carbonica, Silicea, Ignatia, Phosphorus, Lycopodium, Tarentula, Carcinosis, Hepar sulph, and Mercurius solubilis. The mean Cook's scale score reduced from 3.866 to 0.333 post-treatment, with a statistically
